

Caucus Could Affect All Legislation

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision that could vitally affect the course of legislation in the 90th Congress will be made next Monday when House Democrats hold their pre-session caucus.

They will decide whether to try to retain the 21-day rule or discard it.

The rule puts a limit of 21 days on the time the Rules Committee may block House action on legislation approved by other committees. It was adopted originally at the insistence of Speaker Sam Rayburn to protect President John F. Kennedy's legislative program from strangulation by the Rules Committee then dominated by conservatives. It has been retained at the insistence of the Democratic leadership.

But last year's election results made the rule less appealing to its original sponsors. Among other things, the elections vacated the seats of Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith, a conservative Virginia Democrat, and James W. Trimble, an Arkansas moderate.

Democrats held 10 seats on the Rules Committee last year and Republicans 5. The ideological division was 8 to 7 in favor of the liberals, although there were times when the reverse was true, and the 21-day rule was used on several occasions.

The lineup in the new Congress will be 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans. Democrats plan to fill their two vacancies with liberals. Theoretically that would give the Democratic leadership a 9-6 voting edge on most legislation, or at worst 8 to 7. The new chairman, Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., has voted in the past with the 5 Republicans and probably will continue to do so.

With that strong grip on the committee, the leadership sees no point in retaining the 21-day rule. It could be used to force House votes on legislation the leaders want bottled up by the Rules Committee.

Conservatives will be in numerical control of some committees this year and might kick over the traces and approve bills the administration doesn't want. In that event, an unfettered Rules Committee could serve as a graveyard.

Rep. Richard M. Bolling, D-Mo., one of the original champions of the 21-day rule and a leading spokesman for the liberals, sees no reason to retain the rule.

"We don't need it and we don't want it if we get a strong grip on the Rules Committee," Bolling said.

Speaker John W. McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert reportedly agree with Bolling, although they have made no formal statements to that effect. Next Monday's caucus probably will bow to the wishes of McCormack and Albert.

Whether the rule is retained or junked is up to the House itself. It will make the final decision when the new rules are adopted at next Tuesday's opening session.

Conservatives who opposed the rule in the past now see some merit in it if it is changed. They would like to remove the speaker's arbitrary authority to call up or hold back legislation sidetracked by the Rules Committee for 21 days. The speaker now has sole power to decide when the rule shall be used. James Marlow is on vacation.

Judges Want Vote of 18 Year Olds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas County Judges Association's legislative committee proposed Wednesday that the state Constitution be amended to allow 18-year-olds to vote.

The committee urged the association to give the proposal top priority in its legislative program this year. The present age limit is 21.

The committee also adopted a resolution asking that motor vehicle licenses be issued on birth months instead of in January for passenger cars and in July for trucks. In another resolution, the committee proposed that drivers' licenses be good for two years rather than one.

The resolutions will be presented to the association at its meeting Jan. 23-24 at Little Rock.

Baby Bonus in Canada Is $608 Million

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians will pocket about $608 million in tax-free government payments this fiscal year, just for having families.

The payments are made under Canada's family allowance and youth allowance programs. Many people lump them as the "baby bonus." Some Americans have suggested a similar U.S. plan as part of antipoverty planning.

The payoff to parents is a substantial slice of Canadian government costs. For comparison: Total expenditures by the Department of National Defense for the same year ending next March 31 are estimated at $1.57 billion.

Aimed at equalizing opportunities for children, the family allowance law went into effect in 1945, when Canada's population was about 12 million. The postwar baby crop and immigration have pushed the population to 20 million, making the allowance one of the main planks in Canada's social welfare structure.

At the start, the program provided payments of $5 a month for each child from birth to age 5, $6 up to the 10th birthday, $7 to the 13th and $8 to the 16th.

This was changed in 1957 to $6 a month from birth to the 10th birthday and $8 from there to the 16th.

A sliding scale that reduced payments for fifth and successive children in any one family, written into the original law, was removed in 1949.

A government official said the thinking behind this scale was that a larger family could cut the clothing bill by using hand-me-downs. This didn't hold true in practice, he said, "and you don't hand down food, either."

So present regulations contain no riders about the size of any individual family.

The youth allowance program was enacted in 1964. It provides $10 a month for any boy or girl 16 or 17 who still attends school. Family and youth allowance payments are not counted as income for tax purposes. The family breadwinner is given a deduction of $350 a year for each dependent child under 16.

Freedom of Information

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council instructed its staff Wednesday to help Sigma Delta Chi, the organization of professional journalists, prepare a proposed freedom of information law.

The council ordered the action after hearing representatives of Sigma Delta Chi urge approval of a law guaranteeing open meetings and open records as a matter of public interest. The council endorsed the idea.

So Far, Cuba Silent on Lost Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — A runaway unarmed U.S. missile apparently zoomed over Cuba Wednesday after cannon fire and missiles from a pursuing U.S. jet plane and destruction signals from the ground failed to bring it down, says the Pentagon.

The 650-mile-an-hour Mace missile apparently dropped into the Caribbean about 100 miles south of the southwest coast of Cuba, Air Force calculators reported.

The missile, modified into a target drone, was routinely launched from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., Wednesday morning and headed over the Gulf of Mexico for a test chase by F4 Phantom jets.

But it made a wrong turn and took off at 25,000 feet altitude toward Cuba.

An F4 — which can fly 1,600 miles an hour — caught up with the Mace about 100 miles at sea.

Officials at Eglin AFB tried to trigger the missile's own explosive destruction mechanism.

The F4 pilot hit the missile with cannon fire.

He fired two air-to-air missiles of a type now under development. Nothing stopped the Mace.

The F4 pilot gave up and came home.

The Pentagon calculated the expected impact time and announced the incident at precisely that minute — evidently to prevent Communist Cuba from saying anything first.

The government also asked the Swiss Embassy in Havana to tell Cuba what happened.

So far, Cuba has not commented publicly.

Teachers at Chicago Delay Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike by about 650 teachers at eight Chicago junior colleges was postponed late Wednesday night, but another walkout by elementary and high school teachers seemed to be gaining momentum.

Norman G. Swenson, president of Local 1600 of the Cook County Teachers Union, announced the junior college strike, set to begin today, would be delayed at least one day.

Swenson said he received assurances from the Chicago Junior College Board that an increased wage-hike proposal would be made at a negotiating session today.

Preparations for the strike were begun after a similar meeting between Swenson and the board failed to come to terms Wednesday.

Members of the local had been preparing for the walkout in defiance of a court injunction issued during an earlier three-day boycott Nov. 30.

Thursday, January 5, 1967

"As far as we're concerned the injunction has no meaning," a local spokesman said. "The right to strike is the inherent right of every employee in the United States."

In another dispute, teachers in the city's elementary and high schools said they too may strike in the near future.

John E. Desmond, president of the Chicago Teachers Union said Wednesday members of the CTU might set a strike date at a meeting tonight.

Desmond said members of his organization are asking for a total $1,000 raise for 1967. The Chicago Board of Education has offered a $150 increase.

"By Bill"
Well, it's over. The tinsel and tissue all folded, the ornaments put back in boxes, the lights carefully put away and the Christmas Tree has just gone out the door.

According to all rules and regulations we are supposed to have a "sad, wistful feeling, a sense of loss and let down or something like that. Do you suppose we would be completely out of line if we confessed that we are good and glad it is all over with? Heaven help us if we are considered OSC (odd, strange, & curious) but it is very good to get all the furniture back in place, have no worries that the fire-proof decorations will suddenly go awry and burn us all to a crisp.

No doubt the last unexpected guest has dropped by and we can now sit down and review the cards, books and try to figure out who gave what to whom. It was a perfectly wonderful Christmas. We are so grateful to all who made it so and just as soon as we get our breath we will be looking forward to next year!

In the meantime we are doing some house-cleaning at Raley's Style Shoppe. Our January Sale is starting tomorrow. We do not have to make a federal case out of it, but you know this is our sale of sales and has been since we opened shop.

Dresses in sizes from 6 to 20 & 3 to 15 are on sale. These are one-third off. You will want more than one because they are so versatile: dresses for work, school, meetings and parties. Coats & Suits all one-third off. Sportswear reduced 20 per cent. Come early for the first choice and much as we want to please everyone, we must ask that all sales be final.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A busy, popular actor rarely admits he begged for a bit part in a television series. Cliff Robertson, who played young John F. Kennedy in the movie "PT 109", boasts about it.

A few months ago Robertson treated his daughter Stephanie, 7, to a visit to the "Batman" set. On the way home she looked her father over thoughtfully and remarked: "I never knew you knew such important people."

"I went to see Bill Dozier, the 'Batman' producer the next day," said Robertson. "I said I had a problem. 'Yes, I know,' Dozier answered. 'You want a cameo role in the show.'"

"I looked surprised, and then he said that almost all actors with young children had the same problem. Anyway he worked out a little something — it took about a day — so I could impress my child. I don't quite know when I will be seen — briefly — in an episode."

Robertson recently married actress Dina Merrill. They will appear together tonight — 10-11 EST — in ABC's adaptation of John D. MacDonald's short story, "The Trap of Solid Gold."

Robertson, in his early 40s, is primarily interested in his booming film career, and works in television only as an occasional performer who can pick his spots and material.

Robertson has been doing well for about 10 years, but he says that "the Kennedy thing was just great for me because it focused national attention and generated a lot of publicity."

"Whether you like it or not, publicity certainly helps a performer get the kind of roles he wants."

CBS, in its second annual current events quiz for television viewers, Tuesday night propounded about 30 questions on last year's news that ranged broadly from Vietnam to the — Warren report to the moon's surface.

As usual the test was given in advance to a typical national sample with the usual discouraging result — 79 per cent flunked.

NBC will invite some kudos for culture Feb. 5 with a live program showing Picasso paintings in museums in Paris — by satellite — New York, Dallas and Fort Worth. There will also be an on-camera auction of a painting donated by the artist at a New York gallery with the proceeds going toward the rescue of Florentine art damaged by recent floods.

Tar Heels Finally Beat Wake Forest

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Larry Miller, North Carolina's muscular junior, is so strong he once broke a basket during a warmup.

But he was all finesse in the final seconds of Monday night's 76-74 victory over Wake Forest at Winston-Salem, N.C.

The Tar Heels had battled from behind to tie the score. Then with seven seconds left, Miller stole the ball, dribbled two-thirds of the court and lofted a soft underhand lay-up over two defending players for the winning basket.

It was the 10th victory in 11 starts for third-ranked North Carolina and Coach Dean Smith was more than pleased with his club despite the close call.

"I thought we played one of our best games," said Smith. "Don't let that score fool you. Wake Forest was tough. We can't play much better than that."

Miller, a barrel-chested 6-foot-3, 210-pounder, led North Carolina with 23 points while sophomore Rusty Clark added 20. Jerry Montgomery's 20 points led Wake Forest, which shot 55.1 per cent from the floor.

At Greensboro, N.C., Fordham of New York upset North Carolina State 65-63 with sophomore reserve Dennis Witkowski scoring 19 of the Ram's final 21 points.

Witkowski, who collected 22 points and hit eight of 10 field goal attempts in 24 minutes of action, dropped in a pair of free throws with 10 seconds left for the winning points.

Richmond, which had lost 11 straight to Davidson, ended the streak with a 72-69 victory over the Wildcats. Tom Green's two free throws with four seconds left wrapped up the victory for the Spiders after an apparent go-ahead basket by Davidson's Rod Knowles was nullified by the foul.

St. John's of New York overtook George Washington in the second half and defeated the Colonials 60-53. Sonny Dove led the Redmen with 23 points and 16 rebounds.

Dayton, down by as many as 14 points in the first half, caught Xavier with less than eight minutes to play and scored a 75-72 victory over the Musketeers.

For the Chiefs But Thinks GB Will Win

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath's sympathies are with the Kansas City Chiefs, but his instincts are with the Green Bay Packers.

That's the way Namath viewed the Super Bowl game from bedside Wednesday as he gave a medical report on his right knee and a quarterback's report on the clash between the National and American football league champions.

"I'm not leaning either way," said the New York Jets' quarterback. "It's hard to judge. Green Bay is a great team, but Kansas City's got a good team and they're liable to score 50 points on anybody."

But then Namath, obviously looking at it from the viewpoint of a quarterback, talked about defenses and mistakes.

"I think there are a few better defenses around than Kansas City's — like Green Bay's or Buffalo's," he said. "Naturally I'd like to see Kansas City win, but Green Bay makes fewer mistakes than any team I've ever seen."

"Kansas City was vulnerable to a rushing attack this season — more so than the passing. They also make more mistakes than Green Bay — and if that's the case, that could be the outcome of the game."

While Namath speculated on the outcome of the game, he did the same about the operation on his celebrated right knee, and pointed out that while it was coming along faster than anticipated there was no way of telling yet what the end result would be.

"I'm confident — it's been feeling great," he said as he propped his $400,000 leg up on a pillow in his $79-a-day room at a Park Avenue Hospital. "It's

Phillips, Jones in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hula Bowl game Friday night will have more outstanding players than any other all-star football game has ever had, declares Stanford coach John Ralston.

Ralston and Darrell Royal of Texas are coaches of the South squad. It will face a North team directed by Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue and Murray Warmath of Minnesota.

Ralston noted Wednesday that Steve Spurrier of Florida and Bob Griese of Purdue will be the opposing quarterbacks. They have been rated the top two collegiate performers all season.

Among the running backs are Mel Farr of UCLA, Clinton Jones of Michigan State, Floyd Little of Syracuse, Pete Pifer of Oregon State and Charlie Brown of Missouri.

Rod Sherman of Southern California and Harry Hones of Arkansas will alternate at flanker back for the South.

George Webster of Michigan State and Purdue's George Catavolos, who made the clutch interception of Southern Cal's pass for a two-point conversion in Purdue's 14-13 Rose Bowl victory, will be in the North's defensive lineup.

Among the outstanding interior linemen are Lloyd Phillips of Arkansas, John Lagrone of Southern Methodist, Gary Bugenhagen of Syracuse, Jack Calcaterra of Purdue, John Richardson of UCLA, and Diron Talbert of Texas. Ends Jack Clancy of Michigan and Tom Greenlee of Michigan are on hand.

A sellout crowd of 24,000 is expected in Honolulu Stadium for the game starting at 7:45 p.m. (12:45 a.m. EST).

Kansas City Has Arrived in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Super Bowl report: The Kansas City Chiefs have arrived and are practicing. Green Bay is on the way, ticket sales are questionable and a suit is proceeding over the scheduled television blackout of Los Angeles.

The Chiefs, champions of the American Football League, arrived in nearby Long Beach and held their first practice Wednesday afternoon.

Flanker Otis Taylor was fined for missing the team flight, but showed up at practice. Coach Frank Stram wouldn't say how much Taylor was fined, but set up strict training rules.

The Chiefs, who beat Buffalo, 31-7, for the AFL title, have definite ideas about beating National Football League champion Green Bay in the first game of its kind Jan. 15 in Memorial Coliseum.

Stram said there will be a squad meeting each day at 10 a.m., the team will practice each afternoon for one hour and 15 minutes, and Disneyland isn't on the schedule.

The only injured Chief is tight end Fred Arbanas, who has a slight shoulder separation but is expected to be ready for the game.

The Green Bay Packers, who edged Dallas, 34-27, for NFL honors, will train at UC Santa Barbara, about 90 miles north of Los Angeles.

The Packers will leave Green Bay next Sunday and will practice at Santa Barbara through Friday, Jan. 13. The next day Coach Vince Lombardi's club will work out in the Coliseum.

Meanwhile, just how many fans will turn out is causing some controversy. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Bill Nicholas, general manager of the Coliseum, said the game will fill the 93,000-seat stadium.

But 49,000 seats go on sale today in the Southern California area. Reportedly, 27,000 seats have been sold and 18,000 have been allocated to teams in the respective leagues.

Rozelle gave a deposition Wednesday in a federal court suit to prevent the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System from blacking out the area.

The suit has been filed for local businessman Alan Minter by attorney Arthur Toll, who said: "We now have these state-ments and we will properly present them to the court hearing Friday."

The case is scheduled to come before U.S. District Judge William Grey.

A bakers' association says practically all bakery products are produced, wrapped, distributed and sold within a 24-hour period.

THINKS THIS IS THE YEAR FOR GIANTS

By BOB WILLS

Raleigh Times Sports Writer

Written for The AP

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gaylord Perry, a 21-game winner with San Francisco last season,

said today this should be the year the Giants capture the National League pennant.

Perry, a native of Williamston, in eastern North Carolina,

explained:

"We have been out of the pen-nant's race by less than two games for the past two seasons and I definitely think we can take it all this year. We have the equipment and the young players who can share some of the load."

The Giant pitcher, in Raleigh

to accept an award from the local chapter of the Hot Stove

League, said the Giants have one big worry: "Willie Mays must get the proper rest."

Perry said, "Age is catching up with Willie. He doesn't show it out on the field, but he doesn't work out too much before a game anymore.

"We have to rest him to keep him going and this may be what hurts us more than anything else — to look around and not

ON THE MOVE is Jean Claude Killy of France who was clocked at 85 miles per hour during this run. Killy won the downhill championship in the World's Championships in 1966.

Dave Hill Favored in Calif. Open

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — The $22,000 Southern California Open golf competition begins today, and among the favorites is rusty, sleepy and bespectacled Dave Hill.

Hill, of Evergreen, Colo., broke the Los Coyotes Country Club course record with a seven-under par 65 Wednesday in the pro-amateur warmup. Of course, the 28-year-old pro had a number of factors in his favor.

Hill had not played a competitive round since Dec. 10. He left Denver at 1 a.m., arrived in Los Angeles at 4 a.m., and showed up at the course at 7 a.m. And he wore glasses for the first time, having bought them Tuesday.

With these advantages, Hill hit each green in regulation and sank seven birdie putts for a 33-32. Former record for the par-72, 6,600-yard course was 68, set by 10 players.

Hill's team, however, didn't win the pro-amateur. The five-some of pro Bob Harrison and amateurs Ernie Serfas, Paul Karres, George Clayton and C. L. Chase, all of Los Angeles, shot a best-ball 121 for the title.

Heading the field of 350 golfers challenging Hill are defending champion George Bayer, Tommy Jacobs, Jerry Barber, Jack Fleck, Kermit Zarley and other lesser-known players from the pro tour.

The first round is split, with about 175 golfers teeing off today and Friday. Saturday, the field will be cut to the low 120 scorers and Sunday to the low 60 scorers. Winner of the 54-hole event will collect $4,000.

Frogmen to Seek Body of Campbell

By GRANVILLE WATTS

CONISTON, England (AP) — Royal Navy frogmen readied to explore the dark depths of England's Lake Coniston today for the body of British speed ace Donald Campbell — strapped in the cockpit of his sunken jetboat, Bluebird.

The boat, powered by an aircraft jet engine, somersaulted, crashed and sank in 120 feet of water Wednesday as it topped 300 miles per hour on the brink of exceeding Campbell's own world water speed record.

Divers were using powerful underwater lights to search the chilly waters of Coniston in the mountainous lake district. Immediately after the crash they found it too dark to see below 70 feet but nevertheless found Campbell's helmet, shoes and oxygen mask amid pieces of his 12-year-old jetboat. His teddy bear mascot was picked up, too.

"Campbell was firmly strapped to his seat and we expect to find him still in the cockpit," said Norman Buckley, chief official observer of the record attempt.

"Campbell always said that if something serious happened he didn't stand a chance," Buckley added.

Although the 45-year-old British daredevil had a jet engine

see Willie in center field."

Perry disagreed with some baseball people who predict Pittsburgh's Pirates will win the National League pennant in 1967.

The Pirates, Perry said, lack pitching. "They only have one real stopper — Bob Veale. You need more than one sure winner to go to the top and stay there."

Ex-Rams Coach Seeking Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Patera, former defensive line coach of the Los Angeles Rams, is looking for a job with more responsibility.

Patera, who resigned Wednesday, said: "I'm looking for a position where I'll be a more effective coach. I want something with more responsibility. I would like to be a defensive coach."

The 34-year-old former star with Oregon and three National Football League teams was the only Ram assistant coach retained when George Allen replaced Harland Svare as head coach before the 1966 season.

Behind him, he had no ejector seat for use if things went wrong.

In a way, this was typical of an ardently patriotic Englishman who courted death to emulate a famous father — Sir Malcolm Campbell, who set up world land and water speed records in the 1930s.

Donald Campbell was the first man to hold land and water speed records in the same year.

In 1964, he reached 403.1 m.p.h. in his gas turbine-engined car, Bluebird, and hit 276.33 m.p.h. on water in the speedboat of the same name. It was in an effort to beat his own water record that Campbell perished.

Why did he do it?

"I think he did it for Britain," said Leo Villa, Campbell's chief engineer. "You can laugh at that, but Campbell was really proud of this record. He wanted to extend it so that it would be more difficult for anyone to beat."

Friends said Campbell was worried that Americans were planning an assault of his record.

No Miracle Man, Maye Tells Astros

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Outfielder Lee Maye said the Houston Astros expected him to be a miracle man.

"I'm not a miracle man and never claimed to be. All I have ever tried to do is give my best on the field," Maye said Wednesday after learning he had been traded to the Cleveland Indians for outfielder Jim Landis in a five-player deal.

Houston also received catcher Doc Edwards and pitcher Jim Weaver in the deal. Both were with Portland in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Cleveland acquired catcher Ken Retzer, who was with the Astros' Oklahoma City farm club last year.

Landis, 32, has a 10-year batting average of .247 for 10 seasons with the Chicago White Sox, Kansas City Athletics and Cleveland.

Maye, also 32, hit .288 with Houston last year. Maye, also a popular recording artist, came to Houston May 23, 1965 from Milwaukee in a deal that sent Astro pitcher Ken Johnson to the Braves.

The trade was the second in a week by the Astros. Last Saturday Houston traded outfielder Dave Nicholson and pitcher Bob Bruce to the Atlanta Braves for veteran third baseman Eddie Mathews and pitcher Arnie Um- bach.

Houston Manager Grady Hatton said the Mathews trade was indirectly responsible for the Maye-Landis deal.

"With Mathews a left-hander, we felt it necessary to better balance our attack with the right-hand hitting of Landis, who also is a great defensive fielder," Hatton said.

Maye had his best campaign in the big leagues in 1964 when he batted .304 and knocked in 74 runs.

Landis played in 88 games last season at Cleveland, most of them as a late-inning defensive replacement.

He batted only .222 with three home runs. His best season was 1961 when he batted .283 and drove in 85 runs for the White Sox.

Retzer, 32, will report to Cleveland's Portland club. Weaver, 27, and Edwards, also 27, will be placed on the Astros' Oklahoma City roster.

Bebie College Wins Over Memphis Team

MEMPHIS (AP)—Jerry Austin scored with seconds left to give Arkansas State College at Beebe a 56-55 victory over the Memphis State freshmen in overtime Wednesday night.

Austin rebounded in a shot taken by David Kinard with four seconds left.

James Seifres scored 16 points for Arkansas State. Kenneth Robinson had 13 and Kinard 11 for A-State, which led 31-26 at the half.

Duckworth Still Leads AIC Scorers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Henderson's Larry Duckworth continues to lead the AIC basketball scorers and rebounders.

The 6-foot-1 freshman has a scoring average of 23.3 points a game and has a 12.3 rebounding average.

Other scoring leaders are Jim Haney of Arkansas College with a 22.4 average, Bob Cahoon of Ozarks with a 20.3 and Rick Turner of Harding and Kelton Busby of Arkansas A&M with 20.1 averages each.

Second in rebounding is Ouchita's Don Purdy with an 11.3 mark. Harold Glivens of A&M is third with 11.0.

O'Malley's Son Stadium Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have named Peter O'Malley, son of owner Walter F. O'Malley, to manage operations at Dodger Stadium.

Peter O'Malley will remain president of the Dodgers' Pacific Coast League farm club in Spokane, a Dodger spokesman said Wednesday.

Bunter No Longer Escapes Time at Bat

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball players who bunt for a hit will no longer automatically escape being charged with a time at bat, even if base runners advance on the play.

Charley Segar, chairman of the Scoring Rules Committee said Wednesday, "It's been obvious that players have been bunting for a base hit when their teams are losing, say 8 or 9-1."

Instructions to official scorers have been changed to read, "do not score a sacrifice bunt when in the judgment of the scorer the batter is bunting for a base hit and not solely for the purpose of advancing a runner or runners. In that event, charge the batter with a time at bat."

Another change credits a runner who is trapped off base, and reaches the next base without help from an error, with a stolen base even if the runner did not attempt to steal.

81st Wedding Anniversary Is Observed

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Ole and Otilla Sholberg hope their 81st wedding anniversary today will be a little more serene than the last one.

The two centenarians — Ole is 104 and Otilla is 102 — hosted newsmen and television cameramen last year, and sorted 1,200 letters of congratulation from around the world.

It was a little too much for Ole who has been confined to his bed, except for meals, since a week after the celebration.

But Mrs. Sholberg remains active, moving about by wheelchair, and doesn't even like to take an afternoon nap. She still does quite a big of reading from her Bible and her weekly Norwegian language newspaper.

This year the Sholbergs plan their traditional pot luck dinner with their eight children and a number of their great-grandchildren.

Their 20 grandchildren have begat 46 great-grandchildren — and since the last anniversary four more great-great-grandchildren have pushed the fifth generation Sholberg's to nine.

Both Ole and Otilla came to Minnesota from Norway. Ole from the North Sea port town of Kristiansund where he helped his father fish, and Otilla from Skarnes.

Ole met his wife at the age of 15 when making his daily 16-mile hike to get the mail. He mustered enough courage to ask her for a drink of water.

His wife recalled once that, "It seemed Ole got very thirsty. He came back again."

The couple was married seven years later in the bride's family farm home — a log cabin — north of Underwood, Minn.

Their tidy home today — where they live with two daughters, Clara and the widowed Mrs. Frank Meter — is just 15 miles from their wedding site.

Ole is a retired farmer and carpenter. He built their home along with many others in the area and helped build Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Fergus Falls.

Last year the church dedicated a special service to the Sholberg's anniversary.

Woman Shoots Hockey Player

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fleming Mackell, former star for the Boston Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, was reported in fair condition today with gunshot wounds in the stomach and left shoulder.

Police said Mackell, 37, was shot during an argument with an unidentified woman in his car Wednesday. Mackell was vacationing in Florida.

ber's anniversary.

Otilla once summed up their marriage this way: "We have never had a serious quarrel. He has been a good man, and we have had a happy life. We will have a happy life."

They must have presented a good example of married life. Their oldest son, Julius Sholberg, 77, of Elizabeth, celebrated his 57th wedding anniversary last year.

Mary Garden, Opera Star, Dies at 92

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — Mary Garden, one of the first opera stars to act as well as sing, has died at 92 after five years in a hospital in her native city of Aberdeen. She was one of the last survivors of the legendary "Golden Age" of opera.

Although there were some dissenting opinions about the quality of her singing, Miss Garden's strong soprano voice, her beauty and dramatic ability and her outspoken charm made her an idol of operagoers in the United States and Europe from 1900 until her retirement in 1931.

She became a friend of kings, presidents and the wealthy, and wrote a book about her operatic successes and lovers. But she put her career ahead of romance and never married.

When she died Tuesday, enfeebled and alone, there was a Christmas card from an unidentified American admirer above her bed.

Born Feb. 20, 1874, Miss Garden was brought to the United States by her parents when she was 6. She studied the violin and piano then went to Paris at 22 as a voice student.

She was in the audience at the Opera Comique four years later — on Friday, April 13, 1900 — when the star became ill in the third act of Charpentier's "Louise." She took over the role and sang it for 100 performances.

Claude Debussy created the role of Mellsande for her in "Pelleas et Mellsande," which opened in Paris two years later. "You are the only Mellsande," the composer wrote in her score.

In 1907, Miss Garden made her American debut in "Thais" in New York, where she sang at the Manhattan Opera House under the sponsorship of Oscar Hammerstein I. She moved to Chicago three years later and sang with the Civic Opera Company there for 21 years.

She became general manager of the Chicago company in 1921 but resigned after a year of tempestuous clashes with other

Bar Against Secrecy in Arrests

BOSTON (AP)—An associate justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court says the advisory committee of the American Bar Association on free press and fair trial is "against secret arrests and secret trials and darkness where there should be light."

Commenting Wednesday on a report two years in the making by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Associate Justice Paul C. Reardon said: "As spokesman for our committee on free ap, and fair trial, I welcome the study of the publishers. We are in agreement with a great deal of artists and a huge deficit.

Miss Garden returned to Aberdeen after her retirement from opera but continued to give concerts, lectures and broadcasts. She returned to the United States a number of times, the last in 1954.

its content. We have found, as they do now, no necessary incompatibility between the First and the Sixth amendments."

The association said in its report that it could not support any agreement "of control or restrictions on the accurate reporting of criminal matters or anything which would impair such reporting."

In his statement, Justice Reardon, who is chairman of the bar association committee, said: "We too are against secret arrests and secret trials and darkness where there should be light. Our labors have convinced us, however, that there has been and is now on the American scene a problem of prejudicial publicity infecting altogether too many criminal trials and if we diverge from the views of the publishers, it is mainly on that score. The resolution of that problem is still before us."

"In the meantime, all comment and criticism on our tentative draft of standards which comes our way will be weighed and analyzed prior to the promulgation of our final recommendations."

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Diet and Small Feedings Reduce Morning Sickness

 By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

 Q—Is there anything I can take to prevent morning sickness? I had it pretty bad with my first pregnancy.

 A—There is no way to prevent morning sickness but you can minimize it by taking frequent small feedings and avoiding rich, greasy foods.
 There are several seasickness
 remedies that will help tide you over the weeks when this is a problem. If, instead of morning sickness, the vomiting persists all day you may have to spend a few days in the hospital until this complication is controlled. Some women have morning sickness with every baby and others only with their first. Unfortunately, there is no test to determine to which group you belong.

 Q—Is it possible to menstruate after pregnancy has started?

 A—It is not uncommon
 after the start of a pregnancy
 for a woman to have a menstrual period, but the flow is usually less profuse than normally. If a woman has a second menstrual period after she becomes pregnant her doctor should suspect some disease of the uterus as a cause of the bleeding rather than menstruation.

 Q—When a woman has her tubes tied will this cause any physical or mental changes in her?

 A—It will cause no physical changes and there is no reason why it should cause any mental or emotional changes except a greater freedom from worry but this is hard to predict because such changes depend on many factors that are hard to evaluate.

 Q—I am afraid to take any medicine while I am pregnant.
 I have been taking Fiorinal and Equanil. If I were pregnant would they harm the baby?

 A—No woman who is pregnant should take any medicine except under careful medical supervision. Fiorinal is a sedative usually given for tension headaches. It contains a barbiturate and so may be habit-forming. It will not harm the baby. Meproamate (Equanil) is a tranquilizer and might possibly retard the development of your baby in the uterus.

 Q—Is it possible for a woman's cycle to be such that her time to become pregnant is during her menstrual period?

 A—The idea that ovulation might occur with menstruation was exploded about 40 years ago. It occurs in all women about midway between menstrual periods.

 Q—Is it true that if young women indulge in sports involving jumping it will cause them to have difficulties in childbearing later?

 A—No. Any kind of sport that increases a girl's physical fitness would be an asset to her.

WIN AT BRIDGE

An expert playing at his worst doesn't have to make a glaring mistake. Sometimes he will make a mistake so small that it might not be noticed.

South's five club contract was a good one. He and his partner held a total of 22 high card points between them so it also represented very strong bidding.

Dummy's ace won the first spade trick and South led a diamond to his queen. West won with the ace and played jack and another spade. South discarded a diamond from dummy and ruffed with his three spot.

Then South led his king of clubs. South showed out. South continued by leading his five of clubs toward dummy. West played the six and dummy's seven held the trick. South played dummy's king of diamonds, ruffed another diamond with his queen of clubs.

He finessed dummy's 10 of clubs, pulled West's jack of trumps and made the rest of the tricks with dummy's diamonds and his ace of hearts.

Where were the mistakes?

West should have beaten the hand by playing his eight of clubs instead of the six spot. This would have forced dummy's 10. Later when South led the nine of clubs West would have played the six. South could let the nine ride but in that case he would be stuck in his own hand, with no way to pull West's last trump and run the diamonds.

So West had made a serious mistake but he wasn't the only expert who went wrong. South could have made the contract had he ruffed the third spade with his nine of clubs. Then he would have been able to finesse against West's clubs and win in dummy each time irrespective of the order in which West played his jack, eight, six and four.

WHAT IS THE WORTH OF ONE GI?

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SAIGON, Vietnam—(NEA)—There are 370,000 soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines in this war today and, because of it, a man gets to wondering whether he's worth very much in the whole thing.

He is, of course.

He's priceless.

A division-sized unit here is proving it to one of its combat sergeants at this very moment. His safety and well-being are the outfit's continuing concern. Money to guarantee that safety is no object. Neither is time, involvement, equipment nor risk.

Tragically, though, the sergeant knows nothing of the effort.

He has been captured by the enemy.

The soldier, let's call him Smith, was one of a small patrol action which was overrun by greater numbers of Viet Cong

IN VIETNAM, a soldier will do a lot for his buddy. Sometimes he'll even die for him. Sometimes he'll pay a ransom for him.

SOMEONE, naturally, had to build for sale an underwater tow boat such as those used in secret agent movies. Called a Swim Slim, this six-footer will be on display at the 10th anniversary Mid-America Boat Show in Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 20-29. It is powered by a 2.9-h.p. gasoline motor and its propeller is guarded by a heavy steel shield. Two tubes on the hull exhaust the engine over the driver's head. The craft weighs 59 pounds.

(NEA Telephoto)

HERE'S ONE UFO that didn't get away. Police Sgt. Edward Earles of Roselle Park, N.J., displays the strange flying object, which turned out to be a plastic bag that had been fashioned into a balloon and sent aloft. Several people had reported spotting UFOs in the area and police believe they've come up with the answer.

TOM TIEDE IN VIETNAM

guerrillas. Eight of the patrol were killed instantly. The sergeant apparently was not.

United States troops who found the platoon's remains reasoned that Sergeant Smith was spared purposely and is this day still alive somewhere.

"Most of the platoon were not dead from fighting," explained one of the finders. "They were executed with bullets between the eyes."

"So," added another, "we expect the sergeant was kept alive so that the VC can parade him through villages as propaganda fodder."

Propaganda?

"Yes. An example of Cong superiority."

Superiority?

"They'll parade him on a leash, like an animal."

Rankled commanders began a search for the sergeant immediately. Near the platoon annihilation site, a U.S. boot mark was found among dozens of bare (native VC) footprints and the Yanks had their first clue.

Farther out, a piece of the prisoner's personal papers plus an American first aid kit were found, and searchers considered it evidence that Sergeant Smith was dropping bits to leave a trail.

With this physical evidence as a direction indicator, the division's intelligence office put its complex information-gathering machinery into full and widespread operation.

The Vietnamese secret service was notified.

Shadowy undercover informers were alerted.

Then, a reward was offered.

Leaflets by the thousands were dropped on villages. They guaranteed the bearers of reliable information a sum of 50,000 piastres ($500) for the sergeant's safe recovery. Smaller sums were offered for less decisive data on Smith's whereabouts and condition.

One such leaflet was picked up by a 71-year-old villager and, risking VC wrath, he contacted American authorities to say that a GI (answering the sergeant's description) was being kept in a hootch near the man's home village.

"Is he alive?" Americans asked.

"Yes," the old man answered.

"Is your story reliable?"

"You may kill me if it isn't."

A battalion-sized combat force (500 men in 90 helicopters) was sent to the location immediately and another battalion was held in reserve. But, unfortunately, neither Sergeant Smith nor the VC were found. However, evidence did bear out some of the old man's story.

This failure, quite naturally, hit the division bitterly. "Damn it all," said one major, "I'd give anything to get the sergeant back."

And, indeed, so would the division. Intelligence is already working on a larger reward . . . perhaps as much as 1 million piastres.

"With that amount," they say, "we might expect the sergeant's captors to be interested themselves. A VC guerrilla makes less than a nickel a day in regular salary. So 1 million piastres would certainly be tempting."

Thus, the search continues. Money. Armies of men. Mountains of material. The strength of a nation is behind the hunt for one combat GI.

It's expensive as hell.

But then, this man, and every man here, is worth it.

THUNDERING HERD charges off in a mass start of the annual Berlin cross-country run. Runners of all sizes, shapes and ages participated in the race, but the situation at finish line was considerably less crowded than this.

World Food Reserves Reaching Critical Level

Neck and Neck

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

More than half of the people on our planet are underfed or hungry because the world's food production is not keeping up with the birth of mouths to feed.

This is the grim conclusion of a recent study by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

The net growth in world population was approximately 180,000 babies every 24 hours during the harvest year 1965-1966. This is equivalent to the inhabitants of a moderate-sized city.

Yet despite the fact that the world's population increased by 65 million, total food production was at a standstill. It actually declined by 5 per cent in countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America where the population explosion presents the gravest problem.

Even in the United States and Canada the great surpluses of grain have been dangerously depleted.

Scientists warn that our crowded earth is facing disaster unless there is an effective global policy of population planning and control.

"The earth is limited, with a fixed amount of land and a limited supply of natural re-their psychological and social health will be undermined by too many human beings crowded in huge blocks of houses where adequate space and privacy are impossible.

Experiments carried out by the Max Planck Institute have shown that rats and mice held in crowded conditions do not care properly for their young. Scientists have found the same to be true of human mothers into a "dictatorship" in which there emerges one strong and dominant animal.

The same applies to human beings, Dr. Leyhausen believes. Only a curb on human fertility will eliminate overcrowding and eventually solve the population crisis.

In a recent message to Congress, President Johnson also warned that "the task of bringing food production and population into balance is the most critical challenge many countries are facing today and in the immediate years ahead."

This does not mean, as Huxley said, that anyone should tell a woman how many children she should have. "But the way to ease the population crisis is to make available all existing information on population control."

For it is man's duty to hold in trust the resources of the earth and to assess what he will do with the future—how he will achieve more enjoyment and less suffering, more knowledge and less ignorance, more human dignity and less human degradation.

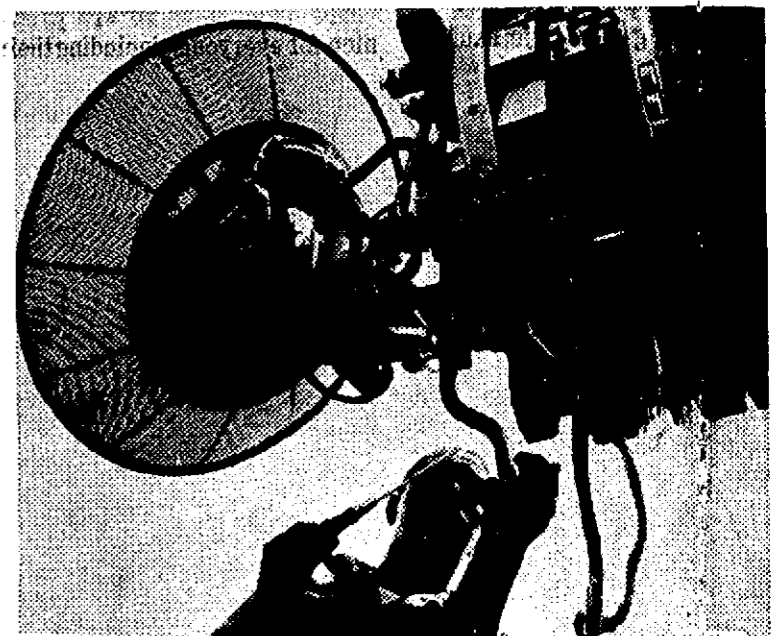

There are few ups and mostly downs in the recent history of the world's No. 1 currency—the U.S. dollar. The 100-cent 1944 dollar has dropped in value to something like 54 cents in terms of today's purchasing power during two decades, according to U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics figures. The steepest decline came at the start of the period under the impact of post-World War II inflationary pressures. At only two points, 1949 and 1954, did the dollar's value rise above the preceding year.

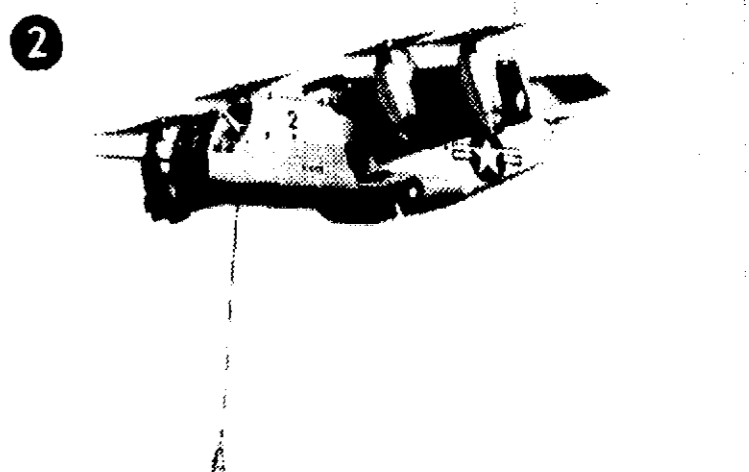

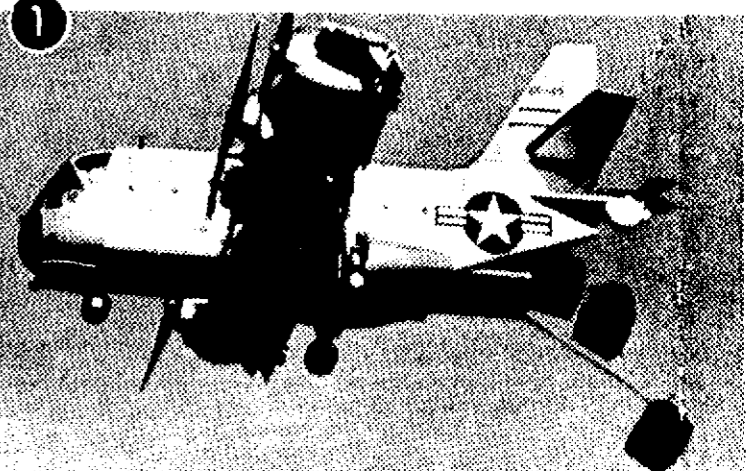

Versatile VTOL

Taking to the skies in a formation test run at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., is a newcomer to aerial warfare, a unique tilt-wing transport, officially dubbed the XC-142A, that takes off and lands vertically like a helicopter and flies at speeds of more than 400 m.p.h. Designed to carry 32 fully equipped combat troops or 8,000 pounds of cargo, its mission is to transport troops and supplies to and from inaccessible areas. It is one of three vertical take-off and landing (VTOL) aircraft being developed by the Pentagon.

Right, the Vought-built VTOL transport in action: (1) Thousand-pound cargo pallets tumble from the transport's rear hatch in a parachute drop. Plane's ability to fly slow or hover permits pinpoint-accurate drops. (2) Wings tilted straight up for vertical hovering, plane rescues a stranded pilot in a rescue mission. (3) Coming in low with wings at half tilt to slow speed, transport makes a cargo drop without parachutes.

UNSUNG HEROES of the war in Viet Nam are the skilled ground crews that service fantastically complicated electronic equipment, often under almost battle-line conditions, to keep today's superfast and sophisticated jet fighters operationally ready at all times. Sgt. Lewis B. Alexander of Cleveland, Ohio, goes over the radar set of a supersonic F-4c Phantom II at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport.

the global view

sources," said Sir Julian Huxley, Britain's noted biologist.

"Science cannot find a way of developing an undeveloped nation if it continues to produce more babies than it can feed."

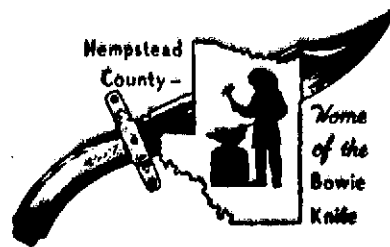

According to Dr. Paul Leyhausen of West Germany's Max Planck Institute, overcrowding is "just as great a danger" as the nuclear bomb.

In his view, the basic problem of the population explosion is not only that future generations will not have enough to eat. He fears that forced to live in overcrowded communities where they often cannot maintain proper emotional bonds with their children.

Taxpayers Due Report on Urban Land Cost

An amazing controversy has developed in the operation of the North Little Rock Urban Renewal Agency, according to a news report in the Arkansas Gazette Jan. 2.

The taxpayers want to know how much the agency is paying for the property it buys and the names of the persons it is buying from. But David P. Woods, the agency chairman, takes the position that he isn't required by law to make these disclosures.

The controversy began last May, the Gazette continues, when Editor Robert S. McCord of the weekly North Little Rock Times, appeared before an agency board meeting and demanded names and cost figures. His demand was rejected by Olen Thomas, agency director, and the director's arbitrary action now is upheld by Chairman Woods.

I quote from the Gazette of Jan. 2:

"Woods admitted that the transactions are public information because the agency uses tax money to conduct business but he said the secrecy helped keep prices down and helped avoid costly condemnation suits . . .

"However, Woods continued, if there is a law requiring the agency to disclose the land transactions the agency would comply. 'I'm not sure we have the legal right to withhold the information. If someone will show us that we are required to release it we will do so,' he went on."

This is an old dodge by power-happy bureaucrats—pleading secrecy "in the public interest" while handling public funds. But the foundation stone of this republic is that the record of expenditures of public funds is and always shall be public property.

How else can we know whether these land purchases are honest and above-board or merely secret dealings to reward political campaign contributors? Every public officer-holder whether elective or appointive knows that he can't avoid citizens' suspicion unless his handling of public funds is freely and fully disclosed.

The spectre of scandal was raised during the last Faubus administration when state bureaucrats attempted to conceal the cost of property around the capitol that was purchased with state funds—and the possibility of scandal is infinitely greater in the handling of the federal government's virtually unlimited funds.

I am forwarding a copy of this editorial to Robert S. McCord at his North Little Rock Times, along with a letter offering financial assistance if needed to explore the law and bring this federal bureaucrat to heel. It's a fight that should put all Arkansas newspapers squarely behind the North Little Rock editor.

Deputy Becomes Tucker Warden

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Robert Henslee, who has been with the Jefferson County Sheriff's department since 1932, has resigned to become a warden at the Tucker Prison Farm, Sheriff Buck Oliver announced Wednesday.

Henslee is a brother of the late Lee Henslee, former superintendent of the state penitentiary, and of Jefferson County Judge Joe Henslee.

Best Dressed Men Named

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson, a Democrat, and two Republicans, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York have been selected on an annual list of best-dressed men.

Johnson was selected Monday for the fourth time by the Fashion Foundation of America under the category of statesman. Romney and Lindsay were chosen under the respective designations of government and civic affairs.

Comedian Jackie Gleason was named best-dressed in the field of television.

Others selected included the Duke of Windsor, international society; George Sanders, stage; Dean Martin, movies; O. Wayne Rollins of Wilmington, Del., chairman and president of Rollins, Inc., industry; Leonard Gardner of New York, president of British Industries, Inc., marketing.

450 Convicted for Violating Draft Law, the FBI Reports

By STEPHEN M. AUG
WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI reported today its investigations led to conviction last year of 450 persons accused of violating military draft laws — almost double the 262 convicted in 1965.

The greatest number of convictions in any previous year for which records were immediately available was in 1954 when 434 were found guilty. But this figure is for a fiscal year — July through the following June — and the 450 figure is for calendar 1966 — January through December.

In the FBI's annual year-end report to the attorney general, Director J. Edgar Hoover traced the increase in the number of draft law violations to the nation's larger military commitment.

Other figures from the Justice Department showed that the number of draft law violations had remained relatively steady since 1962. In that year there were 234 convictions. In 1963 there were 251 and in 1964 there were 227.

An official said the big increase in 1966 was due partly to larger draft calls and partly to strengthening of draft laws. This included a 1965 law that made destruction or mutilation of a registration card a crime.

The FBI did not have figures showing the number of investigations it had made into alleged draft law violations. A spokesman said hundreds of investigations were handled locally by the FBI's 57 field offices and much of the material never reached the bureau's Washington headquarters.

Hoover said the FBI, in investigating Selective Service Act violations had "encountered virtually every type of draft dodging."

Hoover devoted 6 of his statement's 19 pages to the Communist party in this country.

He dealt with last year's anti-war demonstrations in a section of the report titled "Communist Party, USA — Front Activities." But he did not call the demonstrations Communist-inspired.

Hoover said "the moving forces behind these demonstrations are pacifist, student and ad hoc 'stop the war' groups."

"The Communist party and other subversive groups and their members continued to actively support and participate in the demonstrations throughout the country," he said.

In a section titled "Communist Influence in Racial Matters," Hoover said the "civil rights movement during the past year has undergone a sharp division among its leaders as to objectives to be attained and, more specifically, the means by which these objectives would be reached."

He said "several of the more militant Negro leaders have begun to espouse a line of black power. Some of these have openly advocated violence as a means of attaining their objectives."

The report said Communists "recognized the opportunities inherent in this situation and are always looking for political, social and economic inequities to propagandize and use as the basis for creating disorder in our society."

Town May Move East of Rockies

HERMAN, Mich. (AP) — If things keep going like they have lately the town of Herman probably will become an east-of-the-Rockies snow champion.

Herman, with a population of 75, is eight miles by country road southeast of L'Anse, in Michigan's Upper Peninsula at the foot of Lake Superior's Keweenaw Bay.

Mrs. Leonard Lahti, who keeps an official snow depth chart for the State Department of Conservation, reported Wednesday that 142 inches — just two inches shy of 12 feet — had fallen on Herman since 1918.

That's tops for all stations east of the Rockies, and winter barely is under way. Snowfall tabulation doesn't end until May 3.

Police Guard the Body of Jack Ruby

CHICAGO (AP) — Police maintained a vigil today at the chapel which houses the body of Jack Ruby, who killed the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Ruby, 35, died in a Dallas hospital Tuesday of a massive blood clot. Cancer was listed as a contributory cause of death.

Four policemen were stationed at the chapel Wednesday after the funeral home received many calls concerning Ruby. A police officer said that only one patrolman would continue the vigil today.

The operator of the chapel, Hershey Weinstein, told newsmen he received an anonymous call from a man who asked what security plans had been made.

Weinstein related that the man said, "You'd better get some security. There's liable to be trouble." The call came from Dallas he said.

Ruby was convicted of murder with malice and received the death sentence for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, whom the Warren commission named as the assassin of President Kennedy. The conviction was overruled by the Texas Court of Appeals and a new trial had been scheduled.

Ruby's body was returned by plane to his native Chicago Wednesday. The body was taken to the Original Weinstein and Son funeral chapel where it will remain until interment Friday.

The services will be restricted to members of the immediate family — three brothers and four sisters. Burial will take place in Westlawn Cemetery on the Northwest Side.

Ruby's brother, Earl, of Southfield, Mich., told newsmen that his brother suffered mental anguish at the thought that anyone believed his part in the Dallas tragedy resulted from a conspiracy to kill the president.

Earl said he brought a tape recorder to the hospital so the stricken Ruby could state publicly he had never known Oswald and was not involved in any conspiracy.

The three-minute recording will be incorporated in a record entitled "The Controversy," which deals with the assassination.

Appointee of Faubus Ineligible

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said Wednesday he had withdrawn his appointment of Rep. Lloyd George of Danville to the state Merit System Council because George is ineligible under council rules.

One of the rules provides that no member shall have held office or have been an officer of a public organization in the year preceding his appointment.

George will hold legislative office until Monday. He did not seek re-election.

Faubus said he had not decided on another choice for the council position.

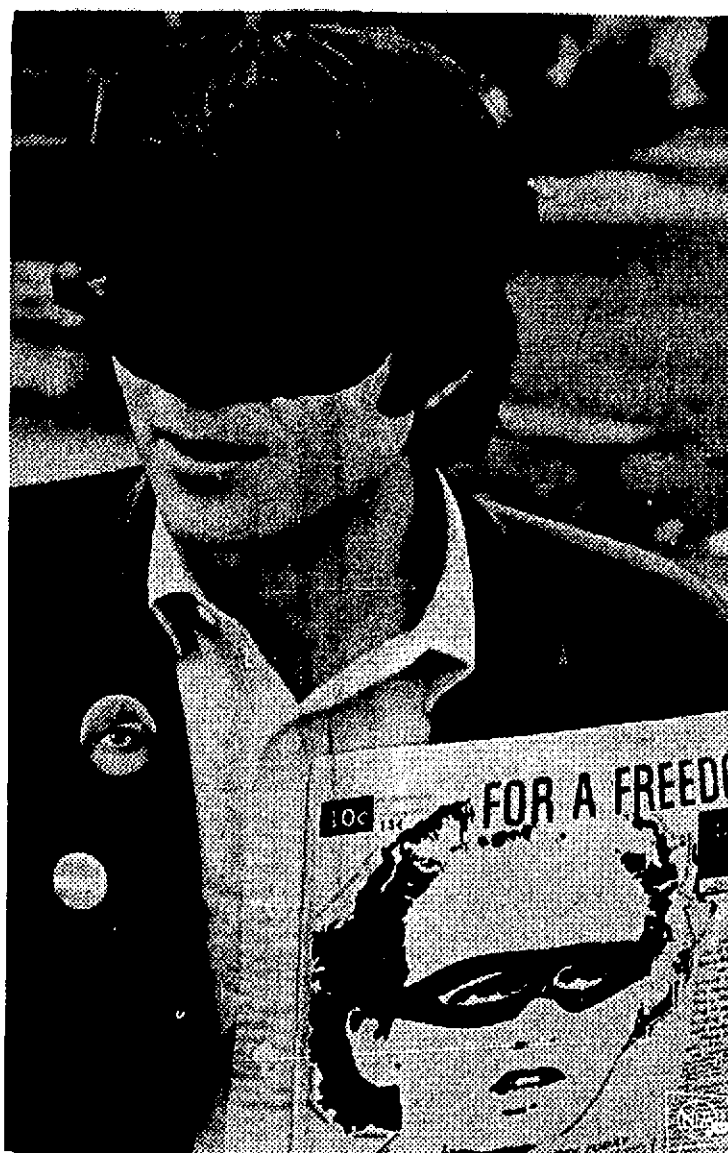

Train Hits Truck and Man Dies

RISON, Ark. (AP) — Horace Lee Rivers, 64, of Kingsland was killed Wednesday when a Cotton Belt Railroad freight train struck his truck at a residential crossing in Rison.

Authorities said Rivers was driving a truck owned by a Camden music firm of which he was a district sales manager.

Togetherness Story of Retarded Pair Amazing, Incredible

By RALPH DIGHTON
LOS ANGELES (AP) — From a shadowy realm where eyes see dimly, muffled mumble add brains black out in the fury of mysterious electrical storms has come an almost incredible story of togetherness.

The story is that of Lennie, 28, and Ricky, 33, physically and mentally defective from birth. They live under constant observation in a ward at Pacific State Hospital in nearby Pomona with 72 others who are retarded.

Almost invariably these, the world's unfortunates, are "loners" — seemingly incapable of knowing that warm human experience called friendship.

Yet Lennie and Ricky are all but inseparably friendly. So unique is their bond that scientists are studying them in quest of a better understanding of the elusive emotions that enable humans to enjoy togetherness, even to the point of sharing things they might be expected to reserve for themselves.

Ricky is blind. Most of what he knows of the world comes to him through Lennie's eyes. Lennie is almost speechless, except with Ricky, but he communicates to others through Ricky's lips.

Lennie is badly crippled but he can see and he leads blind Ricky wherever the two want to go on the spacious grounds of the hospital.

They share everything. Lennie guards Ricky's tray at mealtime from other patients in the ward — but he is not above stealing food from other patients' trays. Lennie gets gifts from his parents and divides them meticulously with Ricky.

Ricky, who has no known relatives, does what he can in return. When Lennie is in the throes of epileptic seizures — brain storms in which he can hurt himself severely unless restrained — Ricky cradles Lennie's head in his arms.

Each has an IQ in the 30's. While psychologists puzzle over what it may be that draws them together, Lennie and Ricky live out their limited lives.

Each morning they greet one another with broad smiles. Although their conversation is largely unintelligible to others, they talk and joke together with obvious delight. When they sit beside each other on a bench in the sun, their faces and hands become expressive and Ricky's slightest eyes seem to sparkle and come alive.

They have been inseparable since Lennie entered the hospital 10 years ago. Ricky had never shown the slightest interest in other patients until Lennie arrived.

Now, Lennie frequently says to no one in particular: "I like Ricky."

And, as bedtime comes each night, Ricky regularly asks his friend: "Did you like this day?"

Texarkana Woman Faces Murder Charge

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Betty King, 23, of Texarkana pleaded innocent Wednesday at her arraignment on a first-degree murder charge in the recent deaths of her two small sons.

She waived preliminary hearing shortly after the charge was filed and was bound over to the February term of court by Circuit Judge William Arnold.

Arnold ordered her to undergo a 30-day psychiatric examination at the State Hospital.

Mrs. King is charged with the deaths of Mickey Dale King, 15 months, who died Oct. 17, and Curtis Eugene King, 3 months, who died last Friday.

Authorities said both children apparently were smothered.

Crow Heads Local Bar Association

At its monthly meeting at the Town and Country Restaurant in Hope former State Senator F. C. Crow was elected President, Albert Graves, Junior, Vice-President and Norman M. Smith, Secretary-Treasurer, of the Hempstead County Bar Association.

Every attorney of Hempstead County is a member of the Bar Association and they are: W. S. Atkins, Lyle Brown, F. C. Crow, Talbot Feild, Junior, Albert Graves, Albert Graves, Junior, John Robert Graves, O. A. Graves, Larry S. Patterson, James H. Pilkinton, Norman M. Smith, Royce Weisenberger and John L. Wilson.

The newly elected President plans to appoint various committees within the near future. One of the projects the bar association sponsors each year is Law Day on May the 1st to encourage government by rule of law instead of rule of man or mob.

Powell Seizes Only Defense, Screams of Racial Discrimination

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell charges the attempt to remove him as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee is a political conspiracy aimed at U.S. Negroes.

From his island retreat in the Bahamas, the Harlem Democrat issued a statement Wednesday night blistering his attackers and promising an all-out fight to retain his chairmanship.

"A political conspiracy of enormous dimensions has not only been mounted against Adam Clayton Powell, but against black political leadership, black people and black progress," he said.

Powell is due to return to the capital this weekend. His fate could be largely sealed Monday when the Democratic caucus meets a day in advance of the opening of the 90th Congress.

Although Powell also faces a challenge to his being seated on Jan. 10, the question of his chairmanship should be settled in the Democratic caucus. Several members already have declared their intention to vote to block Powell's re-election as chairman, including one of Powell's New York colleagues, Democratic Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham.

Bingham said, however, he is not prepared to vote to bar Powell from his House seat. He attacked the House seniority system under which he said two Mississippi Democrats, Reps. William M. Colmer and John Bell Williams, would attain important committee chairmanships this session.

In his four-page statement, Powell ignored the seating challenge and called the fight over the chairmanship "the only issue in this struggle."

"As he has in dealing with previous attacks on him, Powell used the fact of his being a Negro as a chief weapon against his critics."

"To what extent," he asked, "are they motivated by the desire to politically castrate one of America's most powerful Negro politicians of his power?"

Oakland Mayor Gets 10 Years

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has sentenced former Oakland Mayor John C. Houlihan to one to 10 years in prison for embezzling $97,000 from a widow's estate.

Judge Redmond Staats Wednesday rejected a plea for probation, and told Houlihan, 56: "This has been a violation of trust and confidence extending over many years. If I gave you county jail and restitution, it would probably be more burdensome on you. Probation would be too burdensome, not only for the defendant but for the courts and probation officers."

City Plans to Operate a Dog Pound

Due to increase in the number of complaints concerning stray dogs, the City of Hope on Friday, January 6 will begin picking up dogs running loose with no evidence of vaccination or collar and tag.

These dogs will be taken to the City Pound which is located west of the City shop in the Fair Park and kept for a period of seven (7) days. If at the end of this period the dog is not claimed it will be disposed of.

A fee of 75 cents a day board will be charged for each day the dog is in the pound, plus a vaccination charge of $3.50.

The dog catcher will be patrolling the streets Monday through Friday. The pound will be open in the afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 for people desiring to check the pound.

Home and Bug Projects Win Top 4-H Awards

Diana Ging

Dianne Vangilder

A week at the Conrad Hilton Hotel... dancing at the Chee-tah, Chicago's newest night spot for teenagers... a gay round of parties and banquets... these are among the memories Diana Ging of Gravette and Dianne Vangilder of Rector carried home after a trip to the recent National 4-H Club Congress.

They were selected for their state honors by the Cooperative Extension Service which directs 4-H work.

Miss Vangilder, 16, was the guest in Chicago of Tupperware, sponsor of the 4-H Home Management program in which 119,100 4-H'ers from across the nation are enrolled.

A 4-H member for seven years, Miss Vangilder has carried projects in such home-related areas as foods, canning, freezing and clothing. She has consistently produced award-winning exhibits and demonstrations.

Her 4-H Home Management experience enabled her to assume full responsibility for her home this past year while her mother worked. She took over the housecleaning, cooking, laundry and caring for smaller children, and still found time to help with farm chores.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Vangilder.

An interest in insects led Miss Ging to top 4-H Entomology honors and a possible career as a science and math teacher. Her congress trip was sponsored by Hercules Incorporated.

In only three years of project work, Miss Ging built up an insect collection of 850 specimens in 20 orders. She captured six species alive and observed their life cycles.

Putting her 4-H knowledge to practical use, Miss Ging utilized various control measures to eliminate harmful insects from the family barn, garden, yard and house.

Now a student at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ging.

hard-headed about its proposals. The domestic manufacturers asked Tuesday for a meeting with Haddon. They will likely get it since it has been the agency's policy to keep an open door.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., met with Haddon in Washington last week and later said he was satisfied the administrator was aware when he issued the 23 standards that "some of them would, when viewed by the manufacturers and then their reactions given to him, require some modification."

"I think he will, if convinced that one or more of these standards simply cannot be met within the time fixed, make every effort to modify it, either by extending the effective date or changing the technical requirements of it," Hart said.

Ford and General Motors said they could comply immediately with 10 of the 23 points. Ford listed seven others it could meet if minor changes were made in the proposed standards. GM listed eight of these.

American Motors said it could meet 16 almost immediately while Chrysler said it could meet 8 immediately and 5 more if minor changes were made.

The 13 stars in the first U.S. flag were arranged in a circle so that no state could claim precedence over another.

Camel Is No Match For Ice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ever see a camel on ice? Now it's Clyde the crippled camel after his encounter with the slick stuff.

Clyde Jr., 9-month old dromedary at the Columbus Zoo, came bouncing out of his stall Thursday, slipped on ice and broke a bone in his right hind leg.

An 18-inch steel pin was inserted in the leg during a three-hour operation at Ohio State University's veterinary clinic Friday. Assisting Dr. Richard Rudy, assistant director of the clinic, and Dr. A. A. Gabel was Dr. A. K. Bhargana, a veterinarian from India.

Dr. Bhargana, author of a book on camels, is considered an expert on them.

Because of Clyde's youth, his chances of complete recovery are considered excellent.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

THAT TERRIBLE AGE

Dear Helen: I am at that terrible age of 13: too old for toys; too young for boys. Right now to me, horses mean my whole life. I'm sure I'll never get over it. I've talked this over with my older sister and she says you don't always get an answer from horses. But I say you can always go to a horse when nobody understands you. I do. It used to help, but now I'm wondering, so I'm turning to you.

Talking about people who don't understand, take my Mom. I know it's for my own protection, but she says I'm too young to go to concerts put on for teenagers by popular groups like Paul Revere and the Raiders. I was invited to go, but Mom embarrassed me in front of my friends. I found out later that two kids three years younger than I went in my place!

I'm passing in school but not in popularity. Once the most popular boy in our class said how beautiful my eyes are but now that's forgotten. HELP.—HOPELESS CASE

Dear H. C.: Honey, at this point you'll prefer your horse to me, as an advisor. You see—he just listens sympathetically, while I'm liable to spout dumb adult stuff like "Your mother knows best," and, "Time will solve your problem." It's this way: Thirteen is the "discovery" age, and those discoveries are not always pleasant.

You discover your folks don't know everything after all, but they still THINK they do.

You discover you're "quite grown up" but who believes you?

You discover boys, but the stupid oafs would rather play baseball or punch each other and make silly remarks about the more-developed girls.

You discover nobody understands you and horses really don't have all the answers.

You discover a hundred things wrong with you and almost nothing right, but parents only smile in their superior way — and then wonder why you're so temperamental these days.

You discover you're "too old" for the tomboy things you still secretly enjoy, and "too young" for teenage fun—and you begin to believe you'll be "protected" into a severe case of spinster-hood.

How do you manage age-13? You accept it as the "change-over" year and spend it getting really close to your parents, asking and taking their advice, treating them as humans, trying to understand their vetos (even though you can't). If you build trust now, they'll offer teen privileges sooner. When mutual trust and friendship start early, young people discover those years from 14 to 20 are pretty nice for everyone—including their folks!—H.

Dear Helen: I'd like your opinion on "mod" clothes. I am thoroughly disgusted with the narrow-minded people who are against ALL "mod" because there are a few extremes. Being so prejudiced, they fail to realize every fashion trend has its way-outs, and the very short miniskirts, high-high boots and overlong hair are just radical versions of an essentially nice style.

The "mod" I am referring to is exciting and flattering—the well-tailored suits, wide-belted skirts, poor-boy ribbed knits, lively paisley shirts, stove-pipe pants with wide belts, "slim" clothes for boys, bright colors. My 17-year-old brother has never looked better than he does today, with his own Mod look. I find the Mod fashions do lots for a girl's figure.

All I'd really like is for these sarcastic people to have a broader-minded outlook before they condemn.—MARILYN

Dear Marilyn: Me too! I think the Mod styles are, as you kids say, "really there." They're neat and dressy and not nearly so wild as some of the get-ups you see in your parent's high school annual. As for the "Beatle-cut," those pictures of John Lennon before and after should convince adults it's not ALL BAD.—H.

10th Satellite Found in the Saturn Circle

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Astronomers have discovered a 10th satellite circling Saturn just outside the rings that are its trademark.

The satellite apparently is the closest to the planet and the rings, collections of particles that reflect light.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, a clearing house for information about celestial discoveries, confirmed the discovery Tuesday night.

A spokesman said the satellite is between 100 and 200 miles in diameter, but not visible to the naked eye on earth.

Saturn, about 71,500 miles in diameter, is some 886,700,000 miles from the earth. Its largest ring is 170,000 miles in diameter.

Dr. Audouin Dollfus of the Paris Observatory reported to the Smithsonian Tuesday that he had discovered the satellite Dec. 15, but confirmation was withheld until a second sighting was reported.

That came from R.L. Walker at the U.S. Naval Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., who said he spotted the satellite on a photographic plate taken Dec. 18.

The satellite is the first to be found circling Saturn since 1898.

Times Casualty List Same as Red Pamphlet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian casualty figures listed in a Communist pamphlet on American bombings of North Vietnam are identical to those used in recent New York Times dispatches from Hanoi.

The 12-page document was distributed by a North Vietnamese official to newsmen in Moscow in November, according to American intelligence. It is titled "Report on U.S. War Crimes in Nam-Dinh City."

A copy of the pamphlet was provided to The Associated Press by government sources Monday after the Washington Post compared the pamphlet's figures with those in the Times' stories reporting U.S. air attacks had killed many civilians in North Vietnam.

The dispatches in the Times by Harrison E. Salisbury have stirred new controversy over whether the United States deliberately has attacked civilian areas.

President Johnson and administration spokesmen say only military targets are being hit. The President told a news conference last Saturday that "inevitably and almost invariably" there were casualties among civilians in war zones. He said he regretted every casualty — both in South Vietnam and North Vietnam.

In other developments relating to the bombings: —An American Air Force squadron commander reported Monday that he saw two Communist missiles explode on the ground at the edge of Hanoi on Dec. 14. That's one of the days on which U.S. fliers are accused of killing civilians in the North Vietnamese capital.

—Salisbury, in a Times story Monday, quoted officials in the Phatdiem area of North Vietnam as saying there have been more than 150 American air attacks in the district since 1965.

The Johnson administration has not challenged the reporting by Salisbury, a Times assistant managing editor and the first U.S. newsmen admitted to North Vietnam in recent years. But government spokesmen believe Salisbury's stories late last month might have been viewed differently if many of the figures he used had been attributed at the time to official Communist sources in the North Vietnamese capital.

Shared State's Debt At the time of separation, Virginia asked that West Virginia pay a share of the state debt and the problem continued to be an issue in state politics until 1915, when the U.S. Supreme Court decided that West Virginia owed Virginia about $12 million. Final payment of the debt was made in 1929.

The thought of glue may make you hold your nose but you need not look down at the thought of using one of the many adhesives available. Gluing is an easy method to mend things. Success depends on proper preparation and the right choice of glue. Modern glues, especially the new epoxies, make glue joints amazingly durable. Even if you are using some other fastener, such as nails or screws, remember that glue will make the joint stronger.

Regardless of the glue you use, you will find that the rules for preparation and application are pretty universal.

- All old glue (if it is old work) must be removed from the surfaces to be joined. Scrape and sand.
- Surfaces must be clean. Remove dirt, dust, grease, oil or any foreign matter.
- Wood surfaces should be sanded smooth.
- Apply glue in thin coats.

Successful gluing depends on proper preparation and the right choice of glue.

Spread it over the entire surface. If the glue oozes out of the joint, wipe it clean immediately to avoid marring.

Make certain that the parts of the joint are properly aligned, then clamp or fasten in the position in which you wish them to dry. If you are applying a patch, round the corners. Square corners pull loose more easily.

Know Your Glue

Failure will result from improper preparation. It also will result from the wrong choice of glue and not following the manufacturer's instructions.

Mucilage and paste are used for paper and light fabrics, lightweight, porous materials. Animal and fish glues are still around, though rapidly being replaced by synthetic glues. These also are used for lightweight materials and for wood where there is no great stain and no moisture. Clamp pieces and allow time for drying.

Casine glues are used for wood, are strong and do not need light clamping. They tend to penetrate thin materials such as veneers.

The urea resin glues are moisture-resistant and strong and can be used on wood as well as most porous and semiporous materials. Clamp pieces and allow time for drying.

For outdoor use look for something specifically marked waterproof (waterproof resorcinol glues). These need mixing and the glued object should dry at room temperature.

Drawbacks Noted
Ready-to-use, white polyvinyl glues that dry clear are convenient, easy to use, and can be used on a wide variety of materials. There is one disadvantage — they will not withstand high heat or soaking.

Cellulose cements are used for china and glass but can be used on wood or other porous materials as well. They have the same disadvantage as polyvinyl glues.

Rubber cements are waterproof, can be used on both porous and nonporous surfaces and should be used where the joint will be bent or flexed.

Epoxy resins are the miracle glues — strongest, resistant to water and heat and can be used on all sorts of materials including unlike materials. They require the most care in applying and are the most expensive. The glue is in two parts, a resin and an activator. Separately they stick to nothing. Together they set and dry due to internal heat.

Epoxies come in two tubes. Squeeze out equal strips from each and mix until the color is uniform. Apply a thin coat to each surface and join. Mix in small amounts. It thickens in 30 minutes and sets in about four hours.

Cincinnati Hiner Miller was the real name of the American poet, Joaquin Miller.

A Chicken Spread for Winter Snacks

SAUCY SNACK served on toast.

Snack time is any time when you come in from the cold and want something good, quick and sustaining to eat, plus a mug of coffee or tea, or perhaps hot steaming consommé. Of course, if you can find a hut in the woods with a pot-bellied stove going full blast, well, you're in luck, very romantic luck. But most of us will have to settle for the family kitchen.

One of our favorite cold winter afternoon snacks is hot cheese and tomato sauce poured over toasted English muffins. To make: In top of double boiler melt 1/2-pound cut-up Cheddar cheese. When melted, turn in a can of condensed tomato soup. Stir until melted cheese and tomato soup are thoroughly blended. Season with a speck of powdered mustard and a teaspoon, at least, of Worcestershire sauce, and salt to taste.

Here's another suggestion, a little more elaborate. It's made with an excellent canned chicken spread, asparagus spears, slices of tomato, all on white bread toast. Let's call it a coed snack.

SAUCY MID-WINTER SNACKS

- 4 slices white toast
- 1 4 1/4-oz. can chicken spread
- 4 slices tomato
- 12 asparagus spears
- 2 egg whites
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise

Spread toast with chicken spread. Top each with a tomato slice and 3 asparagus spears. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold in mayonnaise and dash of salt. Spoon over open-face sandwiches. Broil about 6 inches from heat until puffed and brown. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Food for Americans

The Lowly Spud--- Best Food Buy

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We've been learning interesting things about potatoes recently. Dr. J. B. Brown, director of the Institute of Food Technology at Ohio State University, tells us that potatoes are one of the lowest cost staple foods. They provide important amounts of the B vitamins or minerals, a fair amount of protein and large amounts of ascorbic acid.

Raw potatoes and dehydrated potato granules contain about the same nutrients. Also, Sunday is the most popular day for serving mashed potatoes, and that use of a flat beater or fork produces a much whiter mashed potato than if a spoon is used for whipping.

Of the portion of the potato crop used for food, about one potato in three will be processed and the other two consumed fresh.

POTATO-MUSHROOM SOUFFLE

- 1 can (3-oz.) chopped broiled mushrooms
- Water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/4 cups instant mashed potato puffs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon onion powder
- 1/4 teaspoon marjoram, crushed
- 2 eggs, well-beaten
- Grated Parmesan cheese, optional
- Paprika

Drain broth from mushrooms and add water to make 1 1/2 cups. Pour into a saucepan, add salt and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and stir in potatoes with a fork until moistened. Gradually add milk, whipping with a fork after each addition. Stir in butter, onion powder and marjoram. Beat in eggs, then add drained mushrooms. Pour into a buttered, deep 1-quart baking dish which has been lightly floured with Parmesan. Sprinkle top with a little Parmesan and paprika. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until puffed about 40 minutes. Serve immediately. Four to five servings.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR. Printed by Offset

Optimistic About U.S. Fgn. Relations

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the exception of Vietnam, the Johnson administration is generally optimistic about America's foreign relations in the new year.

Washington policymakers hope for notable progress in the negotiations with the Soviets for a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

They figure the North Atlantic

Treaty Organization has survived the initial shock of its military divorce from France and, from its new headquarters in Belgium, will reshape its policies to meet new realities.

They expect that the years of Kennedy Round tariff talks will wind up in mid-1967 in agreement on a significant reduction of trade barriers.

They find the Latin-American scene so heartening that President Johnson plans to journey to Uruguay for a summit meeting in mid-April.

Good progress reports are coming in from most of America's friends in Asia.

Red China's potential threat to the outside world is still submerged in her internal turmoil. Prospects from African and Middle East areas are mixed, but there is no great power crisis.

The biggest blot in the picture, from the U.S. diplomatic standpoint, is Vietnam. And it could cloud prospects elsewhere.

Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk both view the inability to achieve peace in Vietnam as a prime failure in 1966. They blame this on the Communists.

Without a diplomatic settlement, the Vietnam conflict promises to go on far beyond this year. Neither the U.S. military commander there, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, nor the top civilian, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, is predicting by what year the Reds will be quelled.

Very cautiously, Lodge forecasts enough headway on the military, political, economic and pacification programs in South Vietnam during 1967 to see "light at the end of the tunnel."

In the meantime U.S. strategists admit an ever-present danger that the impact of the war could spread, despite their attempts to localize it.

American diplomats freely acknowledge that they must focus on the continuing Vietnam question, until peace comes.

Coloring Books Yield Appliques

Don't panic when grandmother swipes junior's coloring book. She's not going into her second childhood—she just wants to get some good applique designs for her next sewing project.

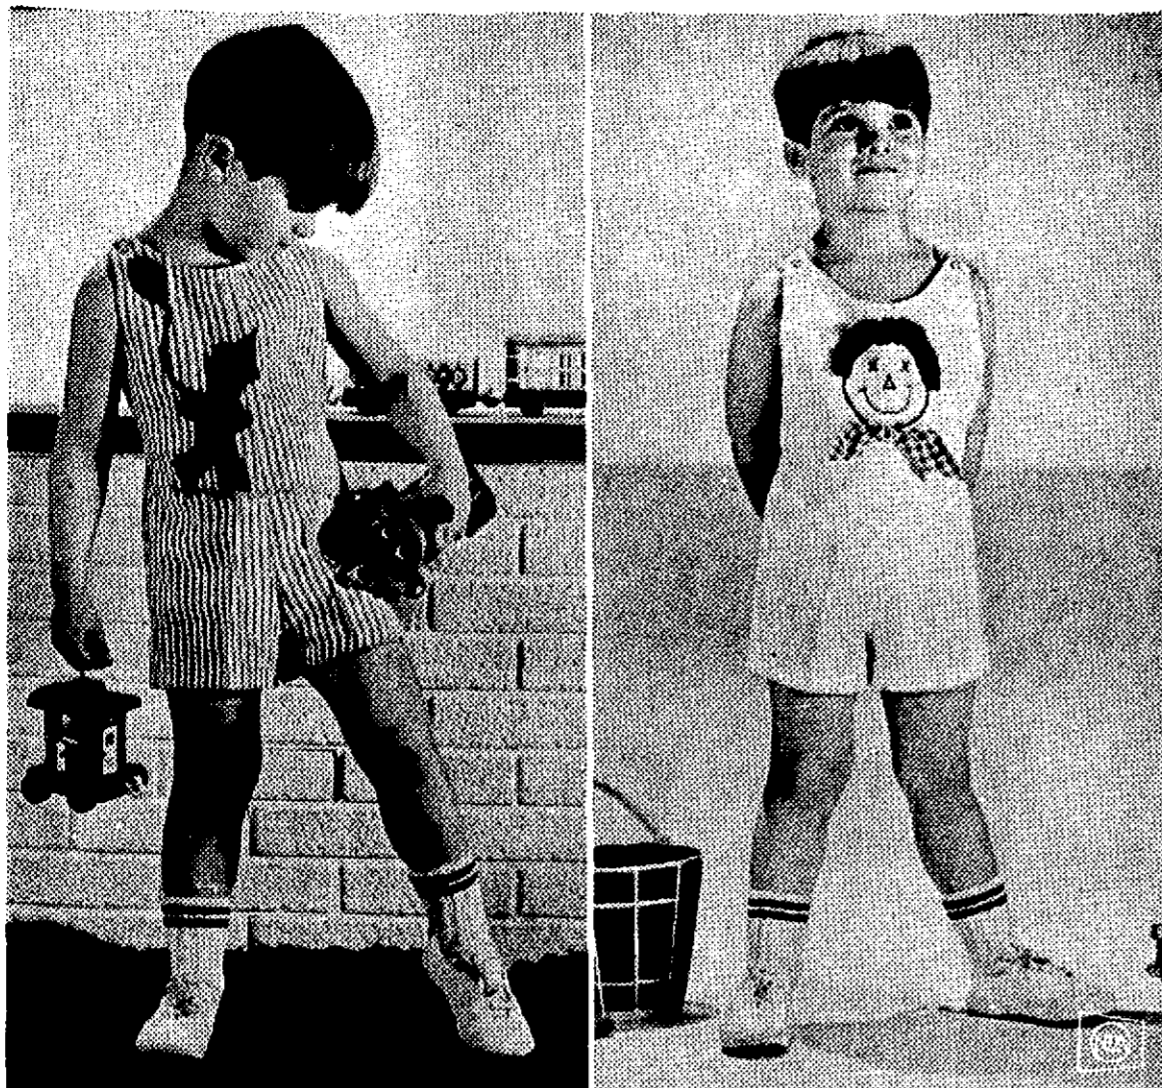

A child's coloring book is a gold mine of applique patterns suitable for youngsters' clothes and furnishings. The pictures are bold and simple, ideally sized, and loaded with kid-appeal. All you have to do is cut out the picture and trace it onto the fabric of your choice. Then use the zigzag stitch on your sewing machine to embroider details and applique the design to the garment.

Here, for instance, a circus coloring book was used to create two interpretations of a clown. The striped romper has a full-figure clown of red fake fur with green hat and balloon. The light blue romper has a chalk-white clown face with red yarn hair and red-and-white necktie.

To make the clown figure, cut out clown from red fake fur, leaving half-inch seam allowance all around. Baste in place on front section of romper. Set automatic sewing machine for a close satin stitch and stitch around outline. Trim away excess fabric. Use a satin stitch for the balloon string. Cut hat and balloon from green cotton, leaving half-inch seam allowance. Baste in place and outline with satin stitch.

Sew on black buttons for eyes and add grassy slope of wide green rickrack. Cut away any remaining excess fabric and press with a damp cloth.

The only tricky part of the clown-face applique is in keeping the strands of yarn

under control long enough to get the hair stitched down. The sewing experts at Coats and Clark, who worked out these appliques, have an ingenious solution—begin with a strip of lightweight cardboard about 1-inch wide and 1-foot long. With a razor blade, cut a narrow slit about 1/4-inch in from one long edge. You will run a line of stitching through this slit, so keep the cardboard joined at the ends. Then wrap washable red wool closely around the cardboard strip, being careful not to overlap or bunch strands. Back cardboard and yarn structure with a strip of organdy. Then stitch carefully through slit in cardboard, attaching yarn to organdy backing. Pull cardboard out, and you will find yourself with a flexible strip of yarn loops, neatly attached to the backing and ready to stitch.

Back white muslin with organdy satin stitch to embroider features on face. Baste hair in place over top of head, trimming away excess organdy backing. Baste head into position on romper front. Stitch completely around the head, using an open zigzag stitch for the hair section and a close satin stitch for the outline of the face. Trim away excess fabric and then add necktie.

If you are doing applique work on a garment you are making, always apply design before sewing the pieces of the garment together. If you are adding applique to brighten up a completed garment, use automatic stitching for the embroidery work but slipstitch the applique to the garment, or use it as a pocket decoration.

So look through the coloring books for applique ideas—you'll find enough patterns to last a lifetime.

Southern Hotel Correct Only Geographically

By EDDY GILMORE
MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Geographically, the Southern Hotel is appropriately down south—way down yonder in South Manchester.

High above the hotel flies a tattered Confederate flag. In the main ballroom is the Lone Star flag of Texas. A miniature Confederate flag decorates every table in the dining room. Above the bar is another burgee with the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Why?
"I'm probably the only middle-aged, South-loving, frustrated English cowboy you've ever met," explained John Ridley 45, "and I'm the proprietor of the Southern Hotel."

"I like the South. I like the Southwest. I've been fascinated by everything Southern and Southwestern since I was a child. But, it was just pure luck when I got the Southern Hotel. You see, it had been named that before I got it. I suppose it's because it's in South Manchester."

In addition to being the proprietor of the Southern Hotel, Ridley is also an official of the Quick-Draw Club in Blackpool.

"We started the club four years ago," he said. "I practice in my cellar, get through about 1,000 rounds of ammunition every week."

Then the members own guns? "Loads of them. I've got a single-hand rig and a twin-rig. The twin-rig is for the two-gun man. I confess, I'm a two-gun English cowboy."

And horses?

"Oh, yes, we've got horses. Not only do most of us have horses, but we have rifles, real American Western rifles and for that matter, handmade leather holsters."

But isn't all this very costly? "You're right it is. Just ask my wife. She's giving me hell about it, partner."

Ridley said he wanted to get one thing definitely understood. "I like all Americans," he insisted. "I just happen to favor the South."

"During the war in Italy, I was in a hospital in Caserta. It was my birthday and they let me out on crutches.

"I met up with some of your boys in a little cafe and got to talking and I said I'd met American men, but I'd never even seen an American girl."

"A big sergeant said, 'We'll fix that.' Do you know, those American soldiers picked up my crutches and they picked me up too and they took me to a place where your WACs were stationed."

"Well, sir, those soldiers knocked on a door and we all went in and sat around for a few minutes being entertained by two delightful American girls."

"The sergeant was a fellow named McDonnell from Texas. Well, he disappeared and after a while I began to get embarrassed at taking up so much of these girls' time."

"Just then some sliding doors opened and I saw about 20 or 30 of these American girls. They were standing around their dining table and on the table was a cake and on the cake there was some candles. They began singing 'Happy birthday.'"

"I cried like a child," said Ridley.

Have any Americans ever been in the Southern Hotel?

"Not that I know of," he replied, "but I'd be proud to welcome them."

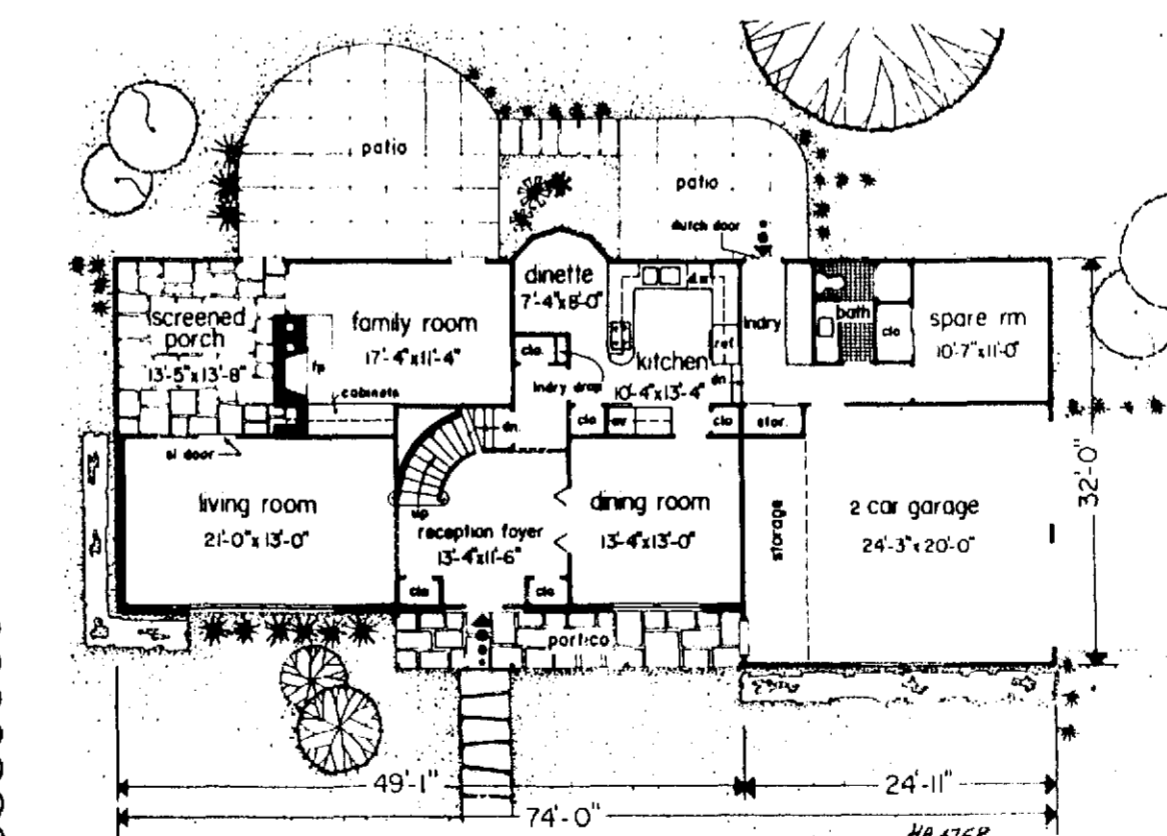

And if they were Southerners?

"The first Southerner who comes in here, or for that matter, the second or the third one, well, if he wants to drink I'll promise he can drink all he wants to—and it won't cost him a penny. Why, I'd be honored, suh."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

first floor plan

second floor plan

THIS TWO-STORY HOME has the flavor and simplicity of traditional design. From the foyer, the person entering the home immediately sees a sweeping circular staircase. To the left and right are formal dining room and living room. Family room, kitchen and spare room are in the rear, with a bay-window dinette projecting into the backyard. The spare room could be guest room, maid's room or fifth bedroom. There are an unusual number of closets and storage spaces in and near the kitchen. Upstairs are four bedrooms, two full baths and an abundance of closets. Plan HA475P, with 1,487 square feet, was designed by Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y.

Roast Chicken with Fruit Dressing

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A big plump roasting chicken or capon, either fresh or frozen, is another thought for the small family's Thanksgiving dinner.

For an extra festive touch, stuff with apricot-apple dressing. For best results roast in a new Teflon-lined (to make cleaning easier) roast or broil pan fitted with a V-shaped rack. This provides a full circulation of heat about the chicken.

APRICOT-APPLE DRESSING—festive touch.

STUFFED ROAST CHICKEN

- 1 (4 to 6 pound) roasting chicken or capon, fresh or frozen
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 cups ready-packaged herb seasoned stuffing crumbs
- 1 cup chopped tart apple
- 1 cup chopped dried apricots

Remove giblets from chicken and set aside to cook, following directions below, while chicken roasts. Rub cavities with salt. In a saucepan, cook onion in butter until soft. Add water and bring to a boil.

Remove pan from heat and stir in herb-seasoned crumbs, apple and apricots. Stuff body cavity and neck lightly. Fasten neck skin to back of chicken with skewer and close body cavity with poultry pins and cord laced like a shoe lace. Tuck wings back and under roaster.

Place chicken, breast side up on V-shaped rack in shallow roast or broil pan. Rub chicken with soft butter or other fat. Roast following directions on wrapper or in 325-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound or until drumsticks feel soft when pressed with paper-protected fingers and leg joints move easily. Baste frequently with suction baster.

While chicken is roasting, cook giblets. When chicken is done, remove to warm platter; remove skewers and cord. Let chicken stand in warm place about 20 minutes before carving. Meanwhile prepare gravy. Serves four to six.

To cook giblets: Place washed giblets in a saucepan. Add a sliced stalk of celery, a sliced carrot, a sliced onion, 3 peppercorns, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add water to cover giblets and vegetables. Simmer, covered, for 15 minutes then remove liver. Continue cooking giblets, covered, for about 1 hour or until tender when pierced with a fork. Remove giblets and chop; strain stock for use in gravy.

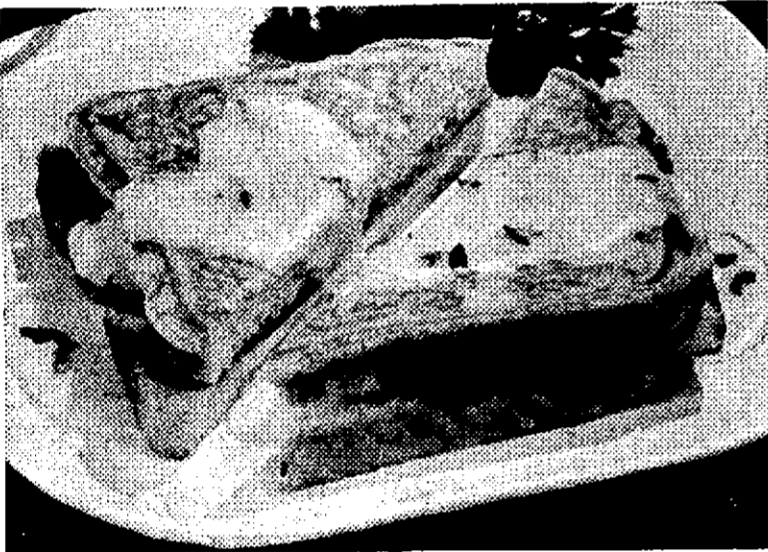

A Tasty Ham 'n' Swiss Cheese Sandwich

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Now is the season for late suppers after the movies, the skating party or the school basketball game. Remember, your guests, whether teenagers or adults, will be hungry. Therefore, have something that sticks to the ribs.

Here's one more version of the classic Ham 'n' Swiss cheese sandwich. It makes a welcome supper dish.

First, the cheese for the filling is grated, then mixed with dairy sour cream. The sandwiches are dipped into a rich batter made with pancake mix and browned in a frying pan or on a griddle, and then topped with a smooth, creamy Swiss cheese sauce. Serve this sandwich with pickles, tomatoes and corn chips and a basket of fresh fruit.

SANDWICH SUPREME: Ham 'n' Swiss cheese.

Sauce:

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
 - 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - Dash cayenne
 - 1 1/2 cups milk
 - 1 cup grated Swiss cheese
- Spread 6 of the bread slices with butter; top each with a ham slice. Combine sour cream and cheese. Spread over ham; top with remaining bread slices.
- For batter, combine eggs, milk and pancake mix in shallow pan. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Dip sandwiches into batter. Pan-fry in butter in heavy skillet or on greased griddle, until golden brown, turning only once. Top sandwiches with hot sauce (see below).

For sauce, melt butter; stir in flour, mustard, salt and cayenne. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture bubbles. Stir in grated cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Makes 6 servings.

Russia Says China Hurts Normal Trade

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has charged that Red China "jeopardized normal shipping" between the two countries by detaining a Soviet freighter for 20 days in the Chinese Manchurian port of Dalny.

The Soviet Marine Ministry said the freighter Zagorsk took on cargo at Dalny and was leaving Dec. 8 when the Chinese pilot gave an order that would have caused it to hit a pier.

The Soviet skipper ignored the order and was told to cast anchor. The Zagorsk was detained on charges of "violating port regulations." After two Soviet protests and a request by the Soviet Embassy in Peking, it was allowed to sail Dec. 28, the statement said.

Samples of the new, nonflammable materials, which are used for the face and hair of the dolls, have been sent to New York for inspection, he said.
